WORLD OF FACES

WORLD OF COMPETITION

The 1968 GUSHER is about a school named C. E. Byrd on a street called Line Avenue; it does not present a school building where students only run from class to class. To an outsider, Byrd may be just that, but if he walked through the front doors and started to examine the two gyms, the classrooms with the library, and the auditorium filled with people, this four story complex would turn into a miniature universe. Like a scientist studying the molecule with the microscope, let us with our own eyes explore the MANY WORLDS OF BYRD. What are the inner worlds, and of whom and of what are they made? They are all composed of students with a great self-determination and a faculty with the desire to teach. Each world is seemingly whirling around independently, but actually all are very interdependent with the others. It takes all of them working together to make a successful school. If we, like the scientist, classify these worlds, they fall into the categories which form our Table of Contents. So come along and discover with us the exciting WORLDS OF FACES, COMPE-TITION, HARMONY, AND AD-VERTISING.

FACES RATE IN '68

Above: A day in May comes for everyone, at which time they will take their last view from a C.E. Byrd High School window. As they have stood as one of thousands of faces in the "City of Byrd," they are now ready to venture into, not only the city of Shreveport, but also the world of life.

Right: Mike Davis was efficient in his Distributive Education job selling new tires. Being a part time student and part time salesman kept Mike busy during his senior year as well as prepared him for the business world.

A Valentine theme was portrayed in the annual "Z" Club Style Show held in February. Sponsored by a local clothing store, the Style Show featured models of several generations and escorts from the Key Club.

Jack the Jacket led the way in the Senior March which took place on Go West Day. A public permit was granted for this first march in the existence of Byrd High School. Western clothes, march cadences furnished by the band, high spirits, and a determination to win were all important ingredients required to "Scalp the Indians," Nevertheless, though all the factors pointed to a victory, the Fair Park Indians could not be stopped.

COLOR THEM BRIGHT

In 1968, the 1400 individual faces that filled the halls of Byrd shone with a radiance of success and accomplishment. Students and faculty alike were proud of another lasting impression of achievement written into the history of C. E. Byrd High School, In September the doors had been opened to eager and excited sophomores who chose to attend Byrd on their own decisions. Their eyes sparkled with anticipation to feel the spirit and pride which is the heartheat of Byrd. Then next the juniors returned for their second year of classes and assemblies, homecomings, and class projects. Their faces captured a strong desire to follow the footsteps of others in "keeping on keeping on." Finally there were those who entered the portals of Byrd ready to work, study, and make their Senior year the most rewarding of all.

Sophomores have always shown eager expressions at their GUSHER party as they mingle with new people and learn different ideas. Their faces were appearing for the first time at Byrd. Likewise they were making their first step to voice an interest in the activities of their high school.

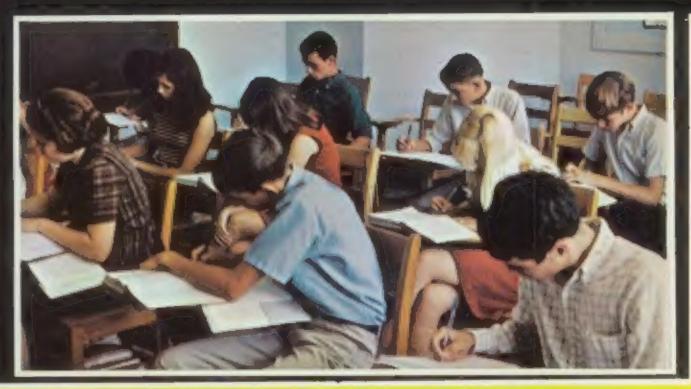

"It is the common wonder of all men, how among so many millions of faces there should be none alike."

Sir Thomas Browne

Beautiful and friendly smiles brightened the faces of the seven Senior girls elected to the 1967 Home-coming Court. Dressed in brilliant colors on the day of their reign were: Clockwise: Claire Herzog, Susan Mauroner, Madeline Harris, Kay Summrall, Peggy Mayfield, Connie Titone, and Queen Charlotte Shaw.

Concentration on taking notes required patience on both the teacher and the student. This vital skill has always been useful in future business or education.

These Teachers Are Made for Educating

"A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops." Such a quotation explains the purpose of teaching, for the students of any class respond to the attitudes and instructions of their educators.

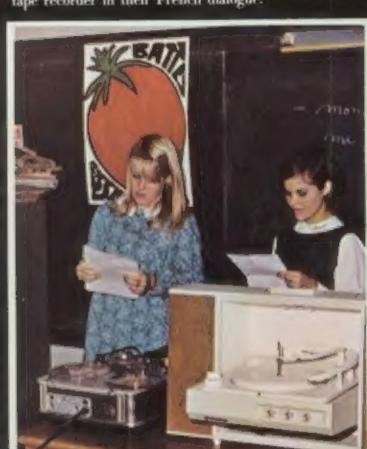

Right: Having one's picture made for the GUSHER has always been a systematic though rather confusing procedure. Each person pays his money, gives his name, and then looks into the camera as Mr. George Shorter snaps the shutter.

Below: Sometimes even students try their hand at teaching. Susan Cunningham and Anne Barnes employed a tape recorder in their French dialogue.

Mr. James White helped students set up a project illustrating a principle of physics discussed in the Science Club meetings and demonstrated on P.T.A. Night:

WE WILL NEVER FORGET

Faces are what make the world go round." This is very true in the universe of Byrd, for the World of Faces is the most prominent and the largest sphere of the universe. Its components lackade the faculty, administration, and students. The other worlds of Byrd are completely dependent upon the Faces. One might compare it to the sun, for the sun supplies the radiance and energy necessary for the life of the other planets as does the World of Faces supply the basis of life for the other three worlds. Upon glancing at this world, one sees a group of people, but upon a close avamination he discovere 1400 individuals with their own distinct personalities, and goals. Visiting a classroom, one would see thirty different types of faces, each with his own expression. There are some that are the leaders, others the followers, some the studious, others the familiesing, some the quiet, others the baistroom. All these go together to make the interesting and complex World of Faces.

Mr. Duncan efficiently handles school problems and supervises school activities, yet he is one in authority who clearly shows that he also has understanding. He exercises good judgement and a sense of fairness as he deals with the teachers and students

Popular with all the students, Mr. Duncan's presence before an assembly never fails to bring a hearty round of applause. Maintaining his faith in youth, he supports the students' efforts, successful or unsuccessful. He is present at each game and outdoes the cheerleaders in yelling for the team. Showing his enthusiasm, Mr. Duncan made several trips to Byrd toward the end of the summer to boost the spirit of the Pep "quad, Being just as active in the "world of academics," he provides an atmosphere that spurs Byrdites on to scholastic success, making the City of Byrd well known for its achievements "on the scholastic field" and "on the athletic field."

For City of Byrd

Like any other thriving city, the City of Byrd requires many behind the scenes workers in order that it may function smoothly and properly. The secretaries, cafeteria personnel, and school engineers all add much to Byrd.

In the main office four efficient secretaries are responsible for handling the business affairs of the school. Their many duties include dealing with absentees, accounts, applications. and records. The secretaries are aided greatly by student office workers who have given up their study halls to help the school.

Keeping the building and school grounds attractive is one of the jobs of the school engineers. They are also responsible for regulating the heating, lighting, and refrigeration systems as well as for keeping the classrooms clean.

Preparing nourishing, well-balanced, and delicious meals for a school the size of Byrd is a full-time job, and the cafeteria personnel are constantly kept busy. They are aided by many cafeteria workers who perform such necessary tasks as handing out ice cream and milk and keeping a sufficient amount of silverware available. In addition to their excellent daily performance, the cafeteria staff rises to the occasion on such special days as Christmas, Thanksgiving, and Valentine's Day to serve appropriate meals with a holiday flair.

These subjects also allow many students to hand in more presentable school work. Future secretaries find shorthand I and II an indispensable aid, for here they learn to take dictation quickly and accurately. In bookkeeping, a course offered only to juniors and seniors, a study is made of the business cycle and entries into journals. Business English strives to teach students correct business terms and procedures. Also offered is clerical practice, which improves a student's general office skills. Widening the curriculum are data processing and cooperative office education.

As a result of the excellent instruction offered in clerical skills at Byrd, many offices are staffed by the competent graduates of our Business Education Department.

Of all the many courses offered at Byrd, probably none affects a student's life more than those included in the Lighsh Department. Without a good background in English, it is difficult for one to obtain mastery in other courses, for English is the basis for all other subjects

In sophomore English, students learn to appreciate world literature by studying such things as the allegorical meanings of The Idylls of the King and the problems of Silas Marner. Juniors concentrate mainly on American literature with special emphasis being placed on The Scarlet Letter and Huckleberry Finn. Also highlighting junior English are the term paper- written by the students on their chosen vocations. Milton's Paradise Lost and Shakespeare's Macbeth typify senior English, which deals with the works of great English writers and their effect on the world and its literature. All classes are constantly drilled on spelling, rules of punctuation, and grammar in addition to literature. Included in the English Department are Journalism, Speech, and Speed and Developmental reading

In Journalism students compete with one another to get their articles in the HIGH LIFE, while special reading classes improve a person's reading speed and comprehension. Speech students learn the art of verbal communication and debate.

Regardless of what profession a person plans to pursue in life, the English learned here at Byrd will prove to have a decided influence on its fulfillment Bringing an element of culture to Byrd, the Fine Arts Department includes music, both instrumental and vocal, art, and the library. Much spirit is added to the Byrd student body by the Band, which plays at pep rallies, assemblies, and concerts. Three members of the Byrd Band gained All-State recognition. The orchestra, which performed at the special assemblies and at the Graduation Exercises, represented Byrd on several occasions.

Performing at assemblies and concerts is the Byrd High School Choir. The teaching of art is a course which is not only appreciated by the student, but also by the school. Helping out in assemblies and other activities, pupils taking art draw many of the background scenes. In the library department students are aided in finding books, magazines, records, films, and tapes in order for them to obtain a wider scope of knowledge. This year the library has started using an extra room for storage. Although credits in these courses are not required, the many students taking them benefit themselves and their future communities by doing so.

In this modern world the life and customs of other nations affect us as never before, for this jet age world has been made so small that we are neighbors with the people of every other country and, therefore, should be familiar with their way of life. There is no better way to obtain this familiarity than through the study of foreign languages.

Byrd's Language Department consists of nine courses, in cluding three years of Spanish, French, and Latin. The first year of Spanish and French is mainly grammar and vocabulary, while Latin I also includes word derivation.

Increasing a student's interest in his chosen language, various clubs meet once a month after school hours. The Latin Forum. Patriotism is a topic of great importance in this day and age. Because of the vast number of draft card burners, loyalty to the United States has seemed to decrease. Striving to develop American patriotism, and lovalty, the R.O.T.C. instructors train the cadets in leadership and responsibility. The students taking R.O.T.C. learn what army life is really like and learn how to maintain discipline. R.O.T.C. is not a mandatory course, but, if taken, it benefits one in future years in knowledge and self discipline.

Instruction in Home Economics is essential for all girls, since it helps prepare them for the problems of future homes. Taking advantage of this course, students learn the skill of homemaking — preparation of food, management of money, and ability to deal with technical breakdown of equipment. Home Economics consists of five different courses with homemaking I-IV dealing with establishment and upkeep of the home itself. The fifth course offered is Home and Family Living. These courses prove to be very helpful to a girl because what she learns stays with her for life

Each Spring the Federal Inspection Team visits Byrd in order to check-up on what the cadets have learned. It is Mr. Duncan's bonor to welcome them to Byrd

Training the engineers and craftsmen of tomorrow is the goal of Byrd's Industrial Arts Department. This department is divided into two parts, mechanical drawing and woodwork. In woodwork students acquire experience and dexterity in constructing such useful objects for the home as cabinets, benches, and tables. The boys are well supervised at all times with special emphasis always being placed on safety. Through mechanical drawing boys tearn how to draw and read blue-prints, and each person has the opportunity to plan his own house as he would like it. In both subjects, exactness and precision are stressed considerably. By gaining skill and knowledge from these lower floor classes, one may acquire the foundation for a successful and rewarding career in engineering or architecture.

Mathematics is playing an important role in all space projects. Without math, the Apollo project would have no chance to be successful, and man's hope to reach the Moon would merely be a dream

As a review of arithmetic fundamentals, general math gives students a brief introduction to algebra I. Algebra I and II teach students the use of graphs and show them how to use formulas. Geometry courses enable one to use signs and symbols and teach theorms. Students interested in further study can take advanced muth and physics in their senior year. Taking these math courses prepares students for advanced study in college. Although only two credits are required for graduation, every student has a chance of receiving an outstanding mathematic background before leaving Byrd.

Math is used everyday, and, because of this Byrd puts a great deal of emphasis on it. Not only do the students benefit from this, but also the public does as well

One of the most important, yet often underrated subjects offered at Byrd is physical education, as evidenced by the fact that there are nine P.E. instructors. Byrd's Physical Education Department consists of a well rounded program designed not only to improve a student's physical condition but also to teach him how to get along with other people.

The boys take part in a wide variety of sports including football, baseball, gymnasties, and basketbalt. Among the many sports enjoyed by the girls are volleyball, archery, and dancing.

Fach of these activities is helpful in building one's again and co-ordination, in addition to providing him with many him filled hours

Since each year of physical education counts as one credit, a six weeks course in health and safety has been added. Students with physical disabilities take this course for in entire year. This subject familiarizes a student with the fundamentals of First And as well as good health and safety habits.

All in ail, physical education helps a student in a variety of ways by increasing his overall personal fitness.

What is centrifugal for e? How is the body structure of a frog similar to that of a human. What significance does the quantum theory hold in today's world? The answers to these and thousands of other questions may be found in the Science Department. This department includes general science, biology, chemistry, and physics. General science is the basis for the other three subjects, for it includes the fundamental principles for all other sciences. Biology deals with the study of plant and animal life. To supplement this study students disert several different animals and examine their findings through the use of microscopes. In chemistry pupils learn the meaning of certain chemical equations and their importance in today's world. Chemistry students are aided by an excellent laboratory in which they may perform various types of experiments. Physics deals with the study of changes in matter and energy.

Through these four courses students gain, besides a general knowledge of science, an excellent foundation for the more advanced courses in college. More important than this, however, is that it gives the inquisitive student the opportunity to pursue his search for scientific knowledge. This desire to "know why" is the principle on which all important scientific discoveries were made. Even if the student does not become a famous scientist, he will acquire the ability to look at life practically as well as scientifically Contrary to the beliefs of many, history is not just the study of the past; it includes the present as well. Because of its never ending quality, history is recorded every day.

Offered at Byrd are two history courses. American history makes a detailed study of the making of our nation. During the last six weeks a study is made of Communism. World history deals with the study of the history spanning from the beginning of time to the present.

Helping associate world events with the part of the world in which they occur, world geography is a benefit to all students. As one half credit courses, economics deals with vocations and careers. It also teaches one how to handle money. Government makes a detailed study of our national government. A requirement for graduation, civies makes a general study of local, state, and national governments. Some topics covered in this course are American citizenship, voting, and vocations

1968: this was the last year we Seniors would ever be a part of the World of Byrd. Our accomplishments were many, vet we have endured many changes from the status quo. Due to optional districts, we received our rings, traditional symbol of Seniors, much later than has been the custom. The face of Byrd itself has changed. The 1968 graduating class is the last large class Byrd will ever have. Seniors themselves have not changed, however, since the founding of Byrd. They are still full of the effervesence of youth, and the determination to improve, characteristics of Byrd. The Senior March, on "Go West Day" was instigated by Seniors, as were many other worthwhile projects and accomplishments. Seniors were not infallible, but were ever striving to represent their school and nation in a manner worthy of C. E. Byrd

and Favorites chosen by SENIORS

Inquisitive Sophomores have turned into industrious Junrs, who likewise have become the promising Seniors of r68. As they assumed the role of the leader of C. E. Byrd igh School, they were voted into positions of honor and imrtant responsibility. Thus the Seniors accepted major ofes and minor offices of the many clubs which compose the orld of Activities. To assure the distribution of leadership a variety of individuals, a student may hold only one ajor office and one minor office or three minor offices.
Therefore, the holders of major offices have been recognized the pages of the Senior section.

However, in addition to these diligent Seniors, the GUSH-R Staff honored one boy and one girl with the title of Mr. d Miss GUSHER. Heralded because of their worthy conibutions of service to the "City of Byrd" during their three ars, Mr. and Miss GUSHER deservingly stand as representatives of many loyal and hard-working Seniors.

Although every Senior has given a part of himself to the halls of Byrd, sixteen girls and boys stood above others as a result of popular vote. The following pages present the Senior Favorites of 1968. Surprised during the annual assembly given by the Senior GUSHER Staff members, the Senior Favorites were honored on February 22. In the many years ahead of the Class of 1968, the pages of this GUSHER will be opened and closed many times. Even though these sixteen students will always be remembered as the chosen favorites, each student will personally hold the memory of other friends of 1968. Whether it was that boy who was your chemistry lab partner, or the girl who helped you with your English homework, every Senior will feel a pulsation of pride as he hears "always deep within our hearts the purple and the gold"

Instead of suffering from the unfortunate cut in the class to 377, this year's Junior class has proved it self as one of great pride and determination. A printe example is the Junior Prom. Only the time and effor they put into the cake sale, the doughnut sale, and the other money-making projects could have made it as successful as it was

We used the same determination in supporting the football, basketball, and baseball teams, as well a golf, tennis, and swimming. The same engerness wa used in serving the Red Cross, Student Council, and other service organizations. Our class will always be remembered for our efforts and the rewards that were reaped from them

Sophomores develop

This year the Sophomore class is relatively small due to the opening of two new high schools in Shreveport. But its effect on Byrd has not decreased. Whether it was painting banners, joining clubs, or working after school, the Sophomores have contributed willingly to Byrd. They have participated in assemblies, gone out for sports, and supported money-making drives. In return, they have received experience, knowledge, and the rewarding sense of accomplishment that lies deep in every Jacket's heart.

After bogging down once on the nine yard line, David Brookings broke the ice with the first score late in the first quarter. With less than three minutes left in the half, Johnny Hammons threw two touchdown strikes, to Roy Burroughs and Dicky Grieder, giving the Byrdites a 19-0 halftime lead. After Ruston came back with 7 points Bill Parker ran back the kick-off behind the fine blocking of Larry Feldman. Later Hammons threw his third touchdown strike of the night to Mickey Hodson, and the Jackets had their first victory of the season. Rick Willis played a fine defensive game for the Jackets.

Increatened by an early score of the visiting Dallas team, the Byrd High Yellow Jackets came back and "stung em" hard by rolling up a 35-7 victory. Leading the Jackets in the scoring department were David Brookings, David Wilkins, Jon Snelling, and Mike Judhin. Leading rushers for the night were Snelling and Judhin who ran for a total of 43 yards apiece. Wilkins snared two touchdown passes from Brookings as the mighty Byrdites posted a 21 point second quarter. Brookings added the last 7 points in the second quarter. The third quarter showed the final score as Snelling and Judhin ran for touchdown jaunts of five and ten vards respectively. The Jacket offense was on the move all night as the defense repelled every attack thrown at them. Besides the two tallies apiece for Burroughs and Snelling, David Brookings ran for one and passed for another to end David Wilkins. The most exciting moment of the game came when junior Tom Teasley picked up a blocked punt and ran it back 35 yards for another Jacket touchdown. Byrd's Yellow Jackets hustled to a 24-5 overall record and a District championship for the 1967-68 season, after defeating many strong teams. In a season that saw the Jackets break many records, they also passed the century mark on several occasions. The Jackets started off strong, but were defeated in the final game and also in the play-off game, after the loss of Steve Robertson. One reason for the Jacket scoring success was their perfection of the fast-break, which they used time after time to humble their opponents. Although they lost in the state play-offs, their hard work paid off by giving them the third highest record in the school's history.

"Gay and exciting" aptly described the Campus Carnival and Peep Show held on the evening of September 19 This gala event, sponsored by the Strugerettes, brought innumerable thrills to all who attended. Vlany long hours were spent by the Stingerettes constructing the booths and sewing the costumes for the boys who were entered in the Peep Show. These brightly decorated booths lining the midway offered games of adventure, skill, and mystery, while the refreshment stands fulfilled another area of adventure for many of the sightseers. Countless other attractions such as the "Candle Squirt," "Handwriting Analysis." "Ring the Coke Bottle," and the "Greased Pole" helped to make this carnival a great success. As the carni val ended, the many fun-servers drifted into the gym where some of Byrd's loveliest ladies waited to vie for the title of "Dream Girl." Each wearing his finest attire, they were introduced and escorted down the runway to meet their public. Exercise is an essential part of every student's education. Besides developing physical fitness, it alerts the mind and bolsters the personality. With this in mind, instructors have planned a strong program of physical activity for the girls' gym classes.

The girls take part in a wide variety of activities in cluding team sports, individual sports, dancing, and health. Physical fitness tests are taken in the fall and spring of the school year, and the scores made on each girl's test are compared at the end of the year to mark her improvement.

This year for the first time, junior girls were taught basic techniques in golf. After they had mastered these skills, they made a trip to the golf course. Other Physical Education classes went to the bowling alley to supplement their study of the sport. ## A Chance to Achiev

Honor, like love and beauty, is an intangible, undefinable something that adds luster to a name and meaning to all life. But it is also something vastly more important — a chance to achieve; it is a certain wiser knowledge of success of having attempted the difficult and being successful. It is the sense of satisfaction that comes with a job well done, a lurking opportunity to become a broader person, a true citizen of the cosmopolitan Twentieth Century.

Leadership, scholarship, out-standing character, and co-operation are the basis for selection. Pelican State, a mythical state created each agust on the LSU campus. This year Byrd had kenty delegates, elected by popular vote of the mor class of last year. The convention, spontred by the American Legion, lasts ten days, ith the delegates vying for offices on the city, trish, and state level. Boys' State begins in id-August and lasts five days, with the girls attending the next week.

Holding positions of importance in the organization of Byrd's R.O.T.C., the Officers of the Brigade and Battalion Staff teach the qualities which a good leader and citizen should possess. The Brigade Commander is chiefly an honorary position and is the highest rank that may be attained in the Junior R.O.T.C. program. For 1967-68, Cadet Colonel Bill Rathert and his sponsor, Colonel Martha Keck, are the commanders of the First Brigade. Under the command of Colonel Rathert are Byrd, Fair Park, Woodlawn, Captain Shreve, and Northwood High Schools. The duties of the Br gide Commander include the inspection and observation of the various battalions, and the general promotion and direction of the R.O I.C. program throughout the area. Assuming a fundamental role in C. E. Byrd's R.O.T.( Department is the Military band of 1967-68. Being rather small in size, the band consists entirely of drums and bugles which are effective in providing the necessary military music.

Besides furnishing music, the Band Company has one other job to fulfill. This is to be competent in the required military knowledge taught in the Reserve Officers Training Corps program. The enthusiasm of the Byrd Military Band Company fills the circle of activities in the R.O.T.( Department

In 1952, Byrd High School's G. S. Patton Platoon was organized in honor of the late World War II General, admirably nicknamed "Old Blood and Guts," It is an organization which contributes not only dignity to the corps but also character development through rigid military discipline.

Movements used by this group are unique in every detail. The various manuevers, designed to produce the greatest impression as members pass in review, are personned to the highest degree of perfection and coordination. This year the unit appeared in such functions as the Marshall and Natchitoches Christmas Festivals and Byrd's Homecoming Celebration. #### STRIKES A BEAT IN EVERY HEART

Whirling around in full speed all year long is the World of Hermony. This world is composed of all the extra-curricular and musical activities.

By merely seeing Byrd from the outside, one would never imagine all the hustle and bustle that goes on inside. The band and choir schoorsing, various clube painting banners in the hall for the next bashesball game, are all part of the "countinted from: In many rooms meetings of other clube are being conducted to choose projects or report on souncil functions. The World of Harmony does not stop at 3:00 or in May, but continues in full speed after school to the late hours, on Saturdays and sall sthrough sounment. Many of the organizations would representatives to various summer workshaps.

A great knowledge and understanding of other people and a sence of responsibility is developed through the involvement in these activities. A purely school room aducation or, to the other extreme, an over emphasized activities schedule both lack in quality; but together in balance they provide an excellent well rounded aducation. Byrd provides such through The World of Harmony.

Serving as this year's Drum Major is John Venable. He has been an active member of the band for three years. His first year, he played trumpet. When he was a Junior, he switched to the Baritone. Being in the All-District Honor Band for two years, he plans to attend the University of Virginia and study music

It all started two weeks before school started when the Jacket band began preparing for a long season, just as the football team did, by practicing musical selections and drills for the marching season. The band prepared to perform for each home game at half-time. They attended the marching festival at Bossier November 7 and received the awards of I (superior) in inspection and II (excellent) in marching. The Byrd musicians were the "Host Band" on November 12 for the "Air-Men of Note" band, which is an outstanding jazz band from the Air Force. The band presented a Christmas concert to the general public December 21, and they "doubledup" with the choir to give the Christmas assembly December 22.

As a service to the school, the club members helped the teachers redistribute their materials before the opening o school and offered their help for odd jobs in the afternoons after school at any time. They helped a new club get started painted street numbers, ran the "meals on wheels" service to shut-ins on Thanksgiving, coordinated a fund raising drive for St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis, Tennessee, and held "Radio Day" on a local radio station as a part of service to the community. As service to God the members attended churcl as a group. Through this actual involvement, the Key Clubbe truly gained better understanding.

Designed to further the students interest and relate his studies of mathematics to everyday living, the math club is a fast growing organization. Under guidance of its sponsor, Mrs. Sallie N. Moody, the club has had the opportunity to hear talks by various college professors, mathematicians, and members of the Byrd faculty. One of the speakers featured this year was a professional gambler who talked about the law of probability and its application to his work. Also on the club's agenda were field trips to Western Electric, United Gas, and the SPAR Planetarium. One of this year's projects was a founding of a system of tutoring for students having difficulties with their math courses.

LATIN FORUM Honors Retired Teacher

Due to decreased enrollment at Byrd and, therefore, the Latin Forum, it was not divided into an upper and lower group this year. There was a single Forum made up of 183 students whose membership was open to first, second, third, and fourth year Latin students as well as to former Latin students who maintain an interest in the language. The meetings were an ducted and planned by individual classes and promoted an appreciation of ancient Roman civilization and imparted an understanding of Rome's language, customs, and arts.

Under careful guidance of Miss Irma Robinson and Mrs Marguerite Weatherly the club members participated in the state J.C.L. Convention held in New Orleans, National Latin Week, the annual Christmas Party, and the spring banquet, which members attended wearing Roman dress. Its money raising project this year was a review of Nicholas and Alexandra by Mrs. We don Lynch. The proceeds went to the Forum's annual scholarship fund

Members of the Red Cross busily carry hones filled to the brain with books out to waiting trucks to be sent to Viet Nam.

Many of the citizens of Byrd carry on activities outside the school which not only enrich their lives, but also help make Shreveport a better place in which to live. Every Wednesday at 8:05 people came for chapel which was a nondenominational meeting, in the middle of the week, for a lift of spirit and a renewal of purpose. Speaking of life in general, the speakers prompted Byrdites to stop and think about their personal goals and morals.

Representing the Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish religions were students who spoke during Brother hood Week in the spring. The student speaker-talked at Byrd as well as at other schools throughou the city.

If one wants to express his viewpoints on varied subjects, once each week he may attend one of the meetings which were held with different leaders and were entirely outside the sponsorship of the school

During the hustle and bustle of the Christmas holidays, the student council and Red Cross were hard at work collecting food and toys for the Salvation Army.

These moments of meditation and these hours of unselfish devotion to the welfare of others are what make up the real Heart of Byrd.

Toward the end of the year the big question is, "When are the GUSHERS coming out?" But, each year this is kept a secret by the GUSHER staff members. When the yearbook finally do arrive, there is school-wide excitement, and the staff members have a day that begins at 5:45 when the staff unloads the 130 GUSHER-filled boxes from the truck and prepares to distribute them in classrooms. The day is climaxed by a GUSHER signing party after school. Often under-estimated by the student body is the amount of time put in by the GUSHER staff. Throughout the years people have associated the name GUSHER with an oil well. This idea, in this oil rich part of the country, is reasonable but nevertheless wrong. To explain fully how the GLSHER got its name we quote from the first GUSHER, printed in 1911. "Of course one of the first things to be done was to select a suitable. name for our annual. Perhaps some are sucprised that we should have GUSHER was the best n thought will dispel the second second large oil-field only a 🗆 🔻 🔻 🔻 It's I to ask est , A CHARLES ette beget taken larger . a to specificate to

And so, gentle reader, since we are of the 'humbler poets,' and since this is our first attempt to issue an annual, be kind in your criticism and look only for the good.

And now, in closing, the Editorial staff of HHE GI SHER of 1911 wishes success to the Editorial staff of 1912 and 1913 and of all time to come. May THE GI SHER become the leading High School annual in the State — nay, may its fame spread over the whole South — carrying everywhere the report of the wondrous achievements of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the Shreveport High School Which it is a species that the staff of the

Byrd athletes excelled even in 1911

Founded in 1911

The year 1911 proved to be another "first" for Byrd High School, With its fifteen Semons, the class of 1911 founded the first GUSHER. In fact, at that time, Byrd High School was then known as Shreveport High and was located on Hope Street. Not until 1926 did Mr. C. E. Byrd give his name to the school or did the pages unfold and expand to encompass the larger number of students and activities.

When the Gusher was born, Effie Moneure, headed its publication, while Charles Stewart managed the advertising. Other records of that eventful year included a football state championship. "The team candidates were not heavy, but the team was fast and well drilled in spite of the lack of a coach."

The back it all season of 1911 was also very second it. Some of the long ago scores were: SHS 23, Marshall 5 and SHS 12, Coushatta 15

And so with pages of activities, athletics, and honors, the "first" GLSHER finally closed its 84 pages. Over the years the book has grown and progressed from this beginning to include the many worlds of Byrd in its over 400 pages of 1968, carrying everywhere the report of the wondrous achievements of Byrd High School. The Class of 1968 feels that the GUSHER has reached the heights of success of which the Cossof 1911 can be proud.

THE BASIS OF ECONOMY

As a profession advertising is young: as a force it is as old as the world. Such a quotation from Bruce Barton signifies the great influence advertising has an parple overyday. The World of Advertising is a very large force in the universe of Byrd. Wherever one goes in this modern world, he is being subjected to and influenced by the billboards, posters and audio-visual advertising both in the city of Byrd and the rest of the world. But advertising serves also another great importance in the universe of Byrd. Part of the money needed to produce the GUSHER each year is raised by the solling of ade by the business staff. The World of Advertising is divided into the worlds of beauty, commerce and entertainment. All of these things go to make up the

THE WORLD OF BEAUTY

When one enters the world of advertising, his first encounter is the world of beauty. It has been said that beauty can't be bought, but in the Shreveport area there are many businesses levoted to beauty. Florists, car dealers, furniture stores, and ewelers all sell lovely things, but these are not the only areas in which beauty is found in business. Beauty parlors, barber hops, cleaners, and clothing stores thrive on making people attractive, but even these do not fill out the scope of beauty. There is also the silent eloquence in the beauty of churches, unerals, and cemetery monuments. The world of beauty even in business is unlimited, for anything that is beautiful is good and what is good soon becomes beautiful

THE WORLD OF COMMERCE

In our community where business is the salt of life, the second, and by far the largest area of the world of advertising, is the world of commerce. There are many friends of Byrd throughout the city dedicated to providing their service or selling their product at the least possible cost. Plumbers, electricians, consultants, and banks all bring service to the world of commerce while, insurance agencies, machine companies, and oil companies all sell their products to the public. To all these different types of business, advertising makes success, or in the words of an old American proverb: "A business man has to blow his own horn — even if he doesn't sell a thing." For anyone in the world of commerce, when business is good, it pays to advertise, when business is bad, advertising is a necessity!

THE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT

As Samuel Johnson once said, "Money and time are the heaviest burdens of life, and the unhappiest of all mortals are those who have more of either than they know how to use Thus the many businesses which make up this final division of the world of advertising are among the most important to the citizens of Byrd. The eating places that cater to the desires of young people, the electricity which provides the power for entertainment are vital parts of a city: golf courses, hotels. drugstores, and newspapers all give the young person places to go and things to do, to keep them out of trouble. To keep himself going places, the high school "kid" can always visit a n ..., clean gas station even if he wouldn't want to live there. The people involved in occupations like these have helped the city of Byrd reach its position of importance in the community by providing its citizens with relaxation to counterbalance the work.
